With rehearsals spanning the globe from our sailboat Lughnasa's cockpit in the hamlet of Rackley to my mother's kitchen in Toronto, what was billed to me as "a simple show" has turned out to be something quite different. Mary Anne found Love Letters and suggested that it might be a good play for us to enjoy a stage debut of sorts—the first time we've had the opportunity to play opposite each other in over 40 years of marriage and theater together. Thanks to an understanding production committee here at CDS we were given the green light.

What you see tonight couldn't have happened without Sue Howe. A great actor, director, and visual artist in her own right, Sue has the chops. She is the critical third set of eyes on the production and it is my fervent hope that we can deliver the subtle and nuanced performance that she demands. Finally, to my life partner Mary Anne, thanks for allowing me to share the show with you.....

We would like to thank our chairman Sheree Ebanks for her great advice and help. Also a big thank you to Paul deFreitas, CDS' theatre manager for all his support and hard work on this production as well as our front of house and bar volunteers.

A huge thanks to box office and bar managers Andrew and Bev Edgington who never fail to amaze.

A show like this is not possible without our media partners: Hurleys Entertainment, Cayman 27 and Cayman News Service. Many thanks to Stephen Chung and his team at OSA for their amazing help on graphic design for our ads and programme. A big thanks to Cathy Fox and Quick Images for their assistance in printing our fliers and programmes at such short notice.

Finally, thanks to you, our audience for coming to see Love Letters. Its your continued support that makes it all worthwhile.
